THE RAID ON DANVILLE.—We are happy to know that the first accounts of the raid upon Danville on Saturday morning, written under great excitement, and forwarded to this city, were somewhat exaggerated, though the conduct of the southerners was heinous enough. One thing is evident, that the robbers were pursued by rebel sympathizers, who knew where the Government property was stored, and where its horses were in corral, for they went systematically to work. It will be a relief to those who have children at the different educational institutions in Danville to know that the thieves respected the schools, though perhaps they were afraid to remain any longer. The vigilance of Capt. Simpson, the Provost Marshal of Stanford, is deserving of all praise. He was upon the track of the robbers and pursued them relentlessly. The aspiring soldier cannot be enlisted unless he has the appliances to bite a cartridge; the bravest loses many toothsome delicacies when he is toothless, and we might increase the catalogue already to show the importance of a proper substitute for the natural utilitarian and beautifying conies sections of the alveolar arch. These remarks have been suggested after a careful inspection of a new Dental Plaza, patented by Dr. J. A. McClelland, of this city, which is a very great improvement over all the artificial dentures we have heretofore seen. It consists in the use of a reticulated gold, plate, or closely woven web, which is covered and filled with vulcanized rubber, thus combining all the advantages claimed for vulcanite, with the neatness and strength of metal.

We never saw the noble old veteran and victor in finer health than he enjoys now. And he is calm, confident, and most cheerful. He knows that he has left the Army of the Cumberland in good hands, and he evidently awaits the investigation, if any is intended, of his own conduct without the shadow of apprehension.

From full conversations with the officers of his staff, we know that all the extraordinary and startling charges, telegraphed as having been made or intimated or suggested in the Washington Chronicle, supposed by some to be an organ of the Administration, are as false as any falsehood that ever emanated from the tongue of Satan. The Administration will never, officially, make one of those charges against him. Why such infamous and malignant calumnies were allowed to come over the wires, whilst the most important truths are daily and nightly smothered by the Government as contraband, is something that we cannot understand. But "Time makes all things even."

We hear and believe, that the President of the United States, since the battle of Chickamauga, has written to Gen. Rosecrans, expressing entire approbation of all he had done, in closing these brief remarks, we take great pleasure in giving General Order No. 24, issued by Gen. Rosecrans on his leaving the Army of the Cumberland. It is characteristic of him, and we could not give it higher praise. Patriotism never spoke in a nobler tone:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE CUMBERLAND, CHATTANOOGA, October 15, 1863.

The General Commanding announces to the officers and soldiers of the Army of the Cumberland that he leaves them, under orders from the President.

Major-General Geo. H. Thomas, in compliance with orders, will assume command of this Army and Department. The chiefs of all the staff departments will report to him for orders. In all his movements, the officers and soldiers, and he, will congratulate you that your new commander comes to you not as he did, a stranger. General Thomas has the confidence of the people, and we could not give it higher praise.

He has given his entire confidence to him, and he owes a debt of gratitude to his fidelity and untiring devotion to duty.

The General commanding doubts not you will be as true to yourselves and your country in the future as you have been in the past. To the division and corps commanders he desires you to thank him for his ready aid and hearty co-operation in all he has undertaken.

To the chiefs of the staff departments and the engineers, whom he leaves behind, he has given a debt of gratitude for their fidelity and untiring devotion to duty.

Companions in arms, officers, and soldiers, farewell, and may God bless you!

W. S. ROSECRANS, Maj.-Gen. Official: C. GODDARD, A. A. G.

Under our obituary head is announced the death of Thomas J. Clay. Thomas was the youngest son of Colonel Henry Clay, who lost his life in the defense of his country on the field of Buena Vista, and the grandson of the illustrious statesman of Kentucky. He secured a liberal education at the University of Virginia, and had inspired his friends with high hopes of his future distinction. He was frank and courageous, generous and impulsive. His confiding nature made him, before he attained his majority, a victim to the insidious influence of Buckner, Breckinridge, and others, and he held the position of Inspector-General on Buckner's staff at the time of his death.

Scarcely a year ago, we announced the death of his only and older brother, Henry. Of course, Henry had treasured up more sacredly the death of Thomas J. Clay. Thomas was the youngest son of Colonel Henry Clay, who lost his life in the defense of his country on the field of Buena Vista, and the grandson of the illustrious statesman of Kentucky. He secured a liberal education at the University of Virginia, and had inspired his friends with high hopes of his future distinction. He was frank and courageous, generous and impulsive. His confiding nature made him, before he attained his majority, a victim to the insidious influence of Buckner, Breckinridge, and others, and he held the position of Inspector-General on Buckner's staff at the time of his death.

There was a rumor in circulation at Nashville on Saturday night, that a loaded train bound for Stevenson and an army coming toward city, on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, were captured at Decatur, Friday evening, by some of Wheeler's rebel cavalry. The rumor further alleged that the loaded train contained amongst its freight a number of pieces of artillery. The cars were destroyed, and the locomotives two of the best on the road—rendered unseizable. It was also stated that a portion of the track was torn up. The rumor lacks confirmation.

Mr. John Schlesinger, of New York, well known as a skilful chess-player, has adopted, under the name of "The Orphan of Woodstock," a German play by Charlotte Birchbecker, which founded on the novel of Jane Eyre. The lady also wrote "Fanchon the Cricket," which has become so well known through the charming personation of Maggie Mitchell. "The Orphan" will find an asylum in the New Orleans Varieté this winter under Mr. J. Lewis Baker. The Brome-Birchbecker-Schlesinger affair has two mothers and a father, despite its orphange.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.—A good washing fluid may be made of hot water and plenty of soap. Sweetmeats may be kept a long time by putting in a safe place, and never setting them upon the table. A plenty of fresh, sweet butter, and a good appetite, will keep bread from molding. And, by the way, we would here throw out a gentle hint in favor of Warner's assortment of (No. 305) Jefferson street) of cigars, pipes—meerschaum, briar, or clay—chewing tobacco, and all articles that users of the weed in any form desire, as far as possible.

WOODSTOCK.—The following Kentucky soldiers, wounded at Farmington, were admitted into the hospital at Shelbyville, Tenn., on the 22d: Edward Hughes, company A, 2d Kentucky Cavalry; Elias Heigh, company D, 7th Kentucky Cavalry. The following rebel Kentucky soldiers were received at the same hospital, having been wounded at Farmington: L. W. Hunter, company E, 1st Kentucky; W. Kalsi, company F, 2d Kentucky; John W. Keaton, company A, 5th Kentucky.

We learn that Joshua Schofield, an old and highly esteemed resident of Vernon, Ind., committed suicide a few days by hanging. He was proprietor of the extensive woollen mills at Vernon, and was one of the wealthiest men in that section of Indiana. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

THEATRES THIS EVENING.—The preoccupation of our columns prevents us from doing more than welcoming Miss Sallie St. Clair to the Louisville stage. She will appear in the French Spy and Young Rebel, and Miss Jane Coombs at Wood's, appearing as Pauline in the Lady of Lyons, with the comedies of Cousin Charity.

THE GRAND MATINEE this afternoon.

LAKE & CO'S Great Western CIRCUS, CORNER EAST AND WALNUT, October 26th, 27th, and 28th, At 2½ and 7½ P.M.

NOTICE.—All freight and passenger must be at the Portland wharf 5 o'clock P. M., as the boats will not be delayed in their return to the city. Passengers must be left with the Agents, on Fourth street, between Main and Jefferson, at 2 o'clock P. M.

THEATRE.—The Ohio Farmer says that coal oil had been found, to be a most effective means of protecting fruit-trees against the ravages of the curculio, by placing sawdust, saturated with the oil, at the foot of the tree.

THEATRE.—The new Union Club House, Boston, has been dedicated. The Club has bought and fitted up in elegant style, at an expense of $75,000, the residence of the late Abbott Lawrence, on Park street. Edward Everett is President.

THE CINCINNATI COMMERCIAL says there is a rumor in military circles that Gen. Buell is to be the chief of staff to Gen. Grant. We sincerely hope that his valuable services may soon be actively secured to the country.
